Guide dog spooked by attacks in village

By ALISON ALOISIO
A shell-shocked guide dog is working to get her confidence back after being attacked on the job twice this year.

Lynn Mason-Courtney, of Bethel and her guide dog, Addie, were walking on Church Street last week when Addie suddenly stopped. Mason-Courtney, who is severely visually impaired but can see motion, saw "a black thing running at us."

It was a Rottweiler, and it was after Addie.

The guide dog, a yellow lab, ran in circles around Mason-Courtney, trying to get away. Another dog appeared, adding to the confusion.

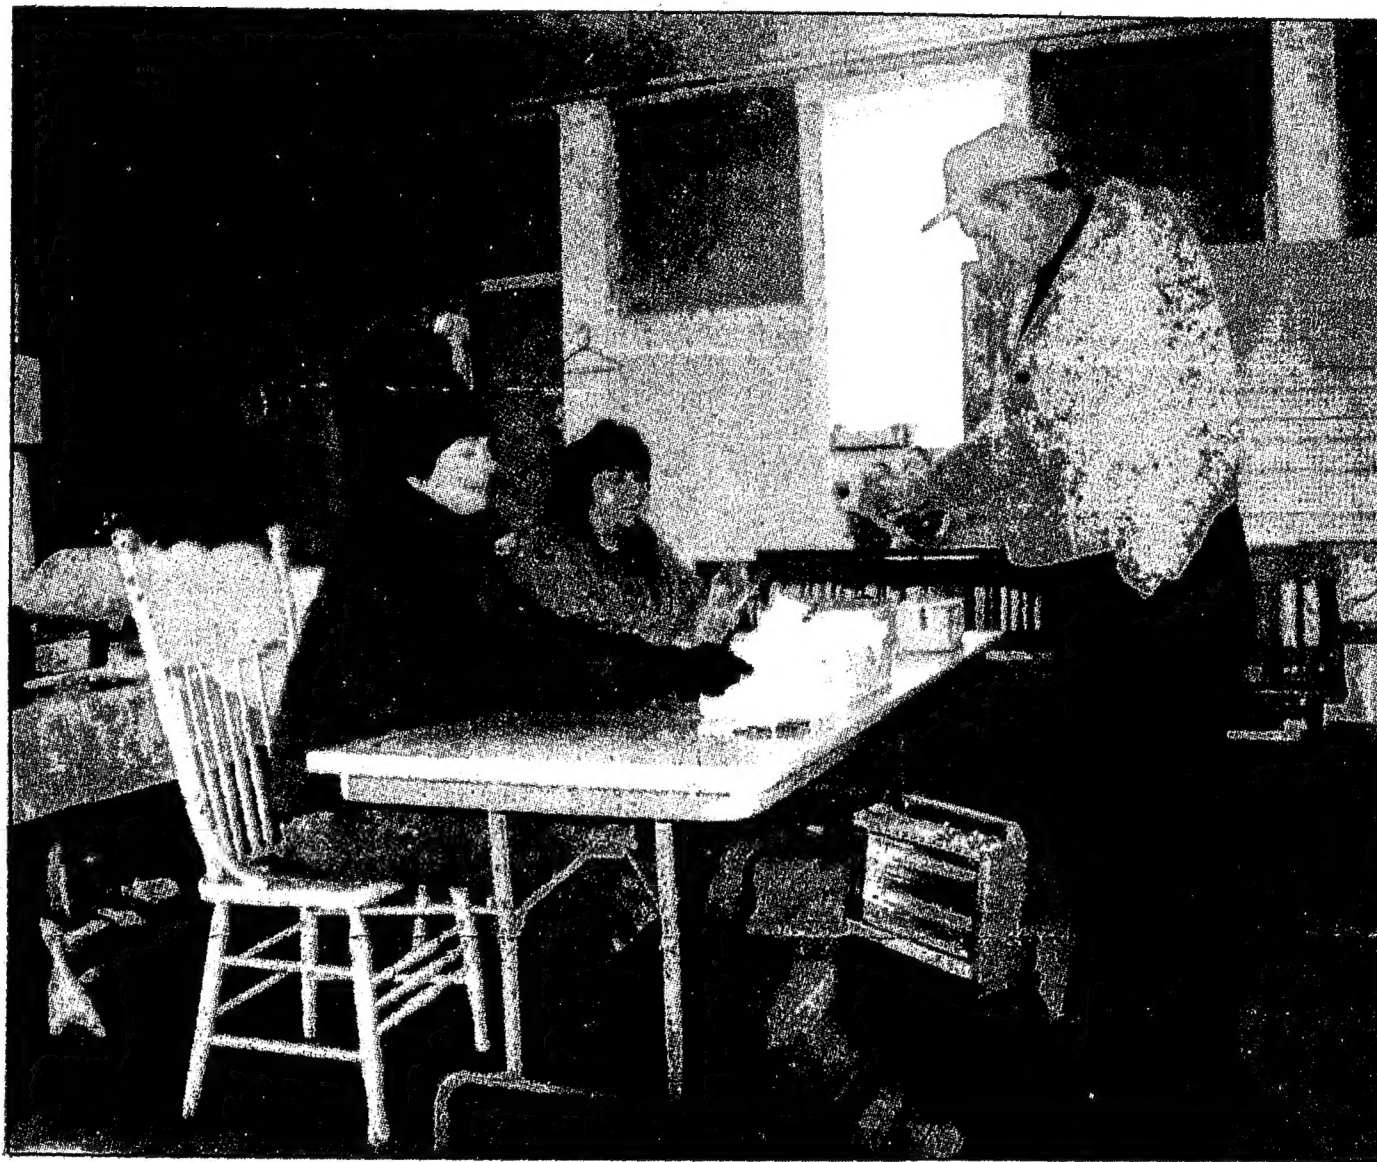

Fortunately, the dogs' owner was nearby, and he grabbed both animals before the situation got more serious.

Addie and Mason-Courtney might have gone home none the worse for wear — except for the fact that this was the second time in several months Addie had been attacked by a Rottweiler.

The first attack, in April, was far worse. Mason-Courtney and Addie were walking down Vernon Street with several other people when, Mason-Courtney said, "a big black

Albany chills out on plantation option

By a margin of nearly four to one, Albany voters have opted not to pursue the process of converting the township to a plantation. Only 46 of the 217 voters who turned out at the town hall Tuesday voted to go ahead with the process. One hundred and seventy-one residents voted against it. Supporters of the proposal had argued it would strengthen Albany's hand in fending off any future attempt by the Passamaquoddy Indian Tribe to establish high-stakes gambling here. Opponents countered that "organizing" would double their taxes. Some also said they believe that if the tribe were to attempt again to establish gambling in Albany, there would be sufficient time for residents to combat the plan in the Legislature or in the courts. While Tuesday's vote puts an end to the formal organizing process for the moment, it is expected some residents will continue to explore the ramifications and technicalities of organizing — in the event future actions by the tribe (which owns 18 acres in Albany) make such a move necessary. There is also a petition now circulating calling for closer cooperation between the township and the Maine Land Use Regulation Commission, which currently rules on development plans in Albany. Here, resident Frank Barton receives his ballot from Alison Rosenblatt and Margaret Barton. An electric heater helps warm the chilly town hall.

Gould taps new headmaster

An educator currently working in California has been tapped as the next headmaster of Gould Academy.

David A. Kunkle, 50, will replace William P. Clough III, 61, who is retiring after 18 years as headmaster. Clough's retirement will become effective at the end of the current school year. Kunkle will take the reins on July 1, 2001.

The selection was announced Friday by Alan B. Ordway, president of Gould Academy's Board of Trustees.

Kunkle's appointment was recommended by a search committee comprised of trustees, faculty, parents, and alumni/ae, and confirmed by a unanimous vote of the Board of Trustees at its Dec. 1 meeting in Portland.

Kunkle is a graduate of Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass., Brown University (BA), and Harvard University (M.Ed.), and served for ten years as head of Midland School in Los Olivos, Calif. Prior to that, he served as academic dean and taught mathematics and physics at Mercersburg Academy in Pennsylvania.

His wife, Kathy Kunkle, also has an educational background as a

Telstar hoops preview

Last year, the Telstar boys' basketball team struggled to score 40 or 50 points in a game. But in each of four preseason games this year, the Rebels scored at least 70 points — enough to win all four games.

By ALISON ALOISIO

That makes second-year coach Larry Durgin optimistic. "We had at least five people in double figures in each game. The scoring was real balanced," he said. "This is an unselfish team. They'll pass to the open person."

The team is also heavy on experience with eight seniors, three of them returning starters. The lineup: seniors Greg Koch (guard); Will Seames (forward); Dan Zinchuk (center); Bob Bean (forward/center); Steve Estes (forward/guard); Paul Cox (guard); Dan Stevens (forward); Alex Johnson (guard); junior Kaleb Durgin (forward/guard);

Selectmen in Bethel, Newry and Hanover OK joint trash plan

Now it goes to voters, at Town Meetings set for later this month

By MICHAEL DANIELS
The board of selectmen in Bethel, Newry and Hanover have approved the final draft of an interlocal agreement providing for the management, disposal and recycling of water materials generated in the three towns.

The plan will now go to voters at Town Meetings on Dec. 15 (Hanover), and Dec. 18 (Bethel and Newry).

The plan has been in the works for several months, and no serious objections have been raised to it. If approved by voters, it will replace the present patchwork of arrangements and facilities with a unified system located at a single site, on Route 2.

The objective of the new plan is to reduce cost to the three towns, by developing a more efficient system, and one in which recycling can be more effectively managed.

The plan will be run by a newly formed Solid Waste and Recycling Board, made up of six members, two from each of the three towns. The cost of the system to each of the towns will be initially set by the agreement, thereafter on the basis of information gathered by the SWRB.

An earlier draft of the agreement called for the plan to run for 10 years, but the Bethel selectmen balked at the length of the commitment, and it was shortened to five years.

They also objected to the restrictiveness of original provisions for revising or terminating the agreement. These were then amended to give the selectmen of the three towns more authority in these areas.

If approved by voters, the plan will take effect on Jan. 1, according to Bethel Town Manager Scott Cole.

"We plan a closing on Dec. 19," Cole said.

The recycling bins in Hanover and the bins and trash dumpsters in Newry will be removed when the new program goes into effect.

One large bin for recycling cardboard will remain in Newry, at Sunday River Ski Resort, which has recently stepped up its own recycling program.

Child allegedly assaulted

At 11:55 a.m. on Dec. 5 police received a report from Crescent Park Elementary School that a student had allegedly been sexually assaulted the previous afternoon at Bethel Park Apartments. Police conducted an interview with the victim and the school principal, and based on that interview the officer then located a subject, Randall Gross, 20, was arrested for unlawful sexual contact and was taken to the Oxford County Jail. He was also on probation and a hold was scheduled to be placed on him pending a hearing.

Thursday, Nov. 30

At 11:35 p.m. police were asked to assist Shelburne, N.H. police with a vehicle chase on the North Road. The vehicle had crossed over into Gilead from New Hampshire. The officer responded onto the North Road, but was then advised the vehicle had doubled back onto Route 2 and was headed back to New Hampshire. It was eventually stopped by Gorham, N.H. police.

Saturday, Dec. 2

At 11:35 p.m. police responded to a two-car property damage accident at the intersection of Route 2 and the Sunday River Road. Gloria Lewis was summonsed for failure to provide evidence of insurance and operating an unregistered motor vehicle.

At 11:15 p.m. police observed a vehicle traveling slowly up Church Street and onto Broad Street. The vehicle had a brake light stuck on the passenger side. The officer stopped it, and smelled an odor of intoxicating liquor. The driver admitted to drinking. The subject was given field sobriety tests and did not pass them. He was then given an intoxilizer test. Brent R. Badone, 22, of Old Orchard Beach was summonsed for OUI. He was also given a civil summons for possession of a usable amount of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Sunday, Dec. 3

At 12:57 a.m. a vehicle was observed operating on the center line. The officer stopped it and smelled an odor of intoxicating liquor. The driver admitted to drinking, and she was given field sobriety tests that she did not pass. She was then given an intoxilizer test. Louise A. Champoux, 40, of Lewiston was summonsed for driving to endanger.

Monday, Dec. 4

At 10:27 a.m. a complainant reported a vehicle had struck her vehicle while she was on Philbrook Street. No damage was reported but the subject fled from the scene without checking. The officer checked the area but could not locate the vehicle. He advised the complainant he would attempt to locate the subject at his residence and lecture him on his actions.

At 2:55 p.m. police received a complaint that a subject was in a business and might be intoxicated. The officer found the subject backing out of a parking space, gave him field sobriety tests. He was then given a breath test. Bruce D. Kenyon, 44, was summonsed for OUI.

In Our Backyard:

Protecting Children's Health

Not only are children our future, but in many instances they possess a greater susceptibility than adults to the health hazards that are present in our environment. In terms of providing the special attention that our children require, Maine is involved in many ways.

The Maine Department of Environmental Protection, along with other agencies and organizations, works in many different areas to reduce the impacts of environmental pollution on children's health.

Removing environmental health hazards from school tops the list of priorities for remediation of health dangers. DEP works with schools to ensure they have appropriate asbestos management plans and conducts inspections of asbestos abatement projects in schools. DEP also participates in outreach training to school personnel to teach proper means of handling hazardous waste and mercury waste, as well as providing information on finding alternatives to mercury for use in schools.

Another opportunity for protecting children's health is in the area of mercury reduction. Children and pregnant women are most susceptible to the effects of mercury. Removing mercury from consumer products will reduce instances of mercury contamination in homes and schools. Earlier this year, Governor King signed into law a DEP initiative to reduce, eliminate and/or recycle the mercury content in consumer products. Implementation of this law represents a major step toward the reduction of mercury in our environment.

Lead poisoning is another major health threat to Maine's children. Every year more than 1,000 children in this state are diagnosed with lead poisoning, with less than 20 percent of our children being screened. Many people in Maine are working to address this children's health issue, including the City of Portland with its Lead-Safe Housing and Childhood Lead Poisoning Prevention Programs.

The state is also very involved in lead poisoning prevention efforts. For example, the Maine Department of Human Services (DHS) Bureau of Public Health is working to train physicians and public health nurses in the detection and prevention of lead poisoning. In another effort, DEP has partnered with DHS Child Care licensing to help all licensed child-care facilities in the state ensure that they are lead safe. Through a variety of programs, DEP, DHS, Maine State Housing Authority and the Community Action Agencies around the state are working together to identify and mitigate lead hazards in children's homes.

There is a great deal of work to be done to ensure that our children live and learn in healthy environments. Parents, schools and child-care providers can play a role too. Some basic steps for reducing environmental health risks for children include:

- Reduce the use of hazardous chemicals around the home or school.
- Have the home or school tested for radon, asbestos and lead. Hire a certified professional to remove or stabilize any problem materials.
- Test water from private wells for contaminants, which can be from natural sources or can be the result of spills, discharges or other conditions.

With state agencies, parents and schools all working together, we can succeed in reaching the common goal of protecting the health of our future.

Pig found in Richardson Hollow area. Must be claimed within 7 days. Contact Ozzy Hart at 207-824-7279.

FOUND WANDERING IN ALCOHOL MARY'S NEIGHBORHOOD. A pig, pink, friendly and about 100 pounds, was found wandering Monday afternoon near the corner of the Richardson Hollow and Alcohol Mary roads in Greenwood. Animal control officer Ozzy Hart corralled the animal and took it into custody. The Greenwood Town Office also sprung to action, and deputy clerk Angela Lovejoy produced the poster above, which caught the eye of a reporter for the Sun-Journal/Sunday. Following a front page story in Wednesday's daily paper, Hart was contacted by the owner, Nancy Drew of Crockett Ridge in Norway, which is about three miles from where the pig was found. Hart said Drew told him the pig had been invited into her home for Thanksgiving dinner (as a guest, not an entrée) and apparently developed a taste for freedom. It escaped a few days later, but is now safely home.

MOVING DAY—The former L.E. Davis building was moved last Thursday from its Cross Street location to a lot on the Parkway. The building was driven across Bethel Station property over to the Parkway, then traveled the short distance down the road to its new home. Here, the building waits for CMP to come and remove a low-hanging electrical wire. The building will serve as the office for Connecting Rentals.

Briefly

Town Meeting date set

HANOVER—Selectmen have tentatively set Dec. 15 as the date for the annual Town Meeting. Clem Worcester, town clerk, said the board tried to set the meeting to coincide with the results of the yearly audit. He said he is not sure if the tax rate will increase from the current 13.2 mills. School costs are expected to go up, he said. The warrant and proposed budget should be ready for public distribution about a week before the meeting.

Andover denied CDBG grant

ANDOVER—The Andover Fire Department did not qualify for a $40,000 Community Development Block Grant to buy self-contained breathing apparatus because personal income in the town is too high. Fire Chief Ken Dixon said the department needs to replace 16 self-contained units at a cost of $3,500 to $4,000 each. The town raised $10,000 last year as its share of the CDBG application. The firemen's association has raised $5,000 for the equipment. The grant requires that more than 50 percent of working residents fall in the low or moderate income bracket to qualify. A survey found that 39 percent met the criteria. An article to deal with the money raised by the town is expected to appear on the warrant for this year's annual Town Meeting.

Hart hired as Dirigo principal

DIXFIELD—Dan Hart of Bethel, a former guidance director at Telstar High School, has been named principal of Dirigo High School. Hart is currently assistant principal of Tripp Middle School in Turner. Hart was signed to a three-year contract with a starting salary of $58,000. He will begin his duties in mid-January. Dan Deshies, assistant principal and athletic director at Dirigo, has served as interim principal since the unexpected death of principal David Cox, who died a few days into the school year.

Special Town Meeting rescheduled

WOODSTOCK—A special Town Meeting originally scheduled for Tuesday of this week has been rescheduled for Thursday, Dec. 14 at 6:30 p.m. in the meeting room at the Town Office. The original meeting was canceled because public postings regarding the meeting were not put out in time for sufficient legal notice, according to Vern Maxfield, town manager. The warrant articles will include consideration of: using $6,300 from the Major Highway Equipment Reserve Account to purchase a new sander for the town's plow truck; removing a building from town property on Church Street and selling the property to an abutter; and approval of using $2,000 in interest from a trust fund for the Whitman Memorial Library to cover an overdraft in the building's maintenance fund.

Hunter found

COBURN GORE—A Gorham hunter was rescued Saturday morning after a night in the remote woods near the Quebec border. Richard Arseneault, 61, was found about 9:30 a.m. by a Maine Warden Service pilot who spotted his tracks. Arseneault was separated from his party just before dark and had lost his compass, according to Lt. Bill Allen. Arseneault, an experienced woodsman, had managed to start a fire and suffered from mild hypothermia.

Avalanche at Sugarloaf

CARRABASSETT VALLEY—An eight-foot avalanche roared down the headwall section of the Narrow Gauge trail at Sugarloaf/USA at about 1 p.m. Dec. 2. The section was closed at the time because snowmaking was still in progress. The mountain had recently received six to eight inches of natural snow, in addition to the manmade snow. The pitch angle for the headwall is 34 degrees. The wall of snow, eight feet deep and 30 to 40 yards wide, slid 150 yards down the slope and came to a halt at the treeline at the bottom of the slope. No people were involved. Although rare in the Northeast, this was not the first avalanche to occur at Sugarloaf. In 1995 there was a major slide in the snowfields at the summit.

Telstar Winter Concert

BETHEL—The Telstar Music Department's annual Winter Concert will take place Wednesday, Dec. 13 at 7 p.m. in the Helen Berry Auditorium. Featured will be the Telstar Singers and Middle School Chorus, conducted by Jill Nowak, and the Middle School Concert Band and High School Concert Band, conducted by Jennifer Christiansen. Admission is free, but donations are appreciated.

Santa Sunday at Sunday River

NEWRY—Skiers and snowboarders are being invited to show up at Sunday River Ski Resort Sunday in full Santa Claus garb and carrying a new toy for a needy child. Each toy will be donated to the Bethel Rotary Club's annual drive to provide gifts for the area's needy children. The Santas will be rewarded with three days of free skiing. To qualify, skiers and riders must wear a red Santa hat with white pompom, red Santa jacket, red Santa pants and a Santa belt and beard. Other guidelines and registration information can be found by logging on to sundayriver.com or by calling 824-5251. Tickets will be limited.

ASC-Nike partnership

NEWRY—American Skiing Co. and Nike All Conditions Gear last week announced a five-year retail and marketing partnership. Nike will become the official outdoor apparel supplier to ASC's resort personnel. In addition, ASC's retail division will become an official retail licensee and operator of Nike ACG stores and concept shops.

Trail signs for sale

GORHAM, N.H.—The Appalachian Mountain Club's annual Online Trail Sign Auction is now under way on the club's web site at www.outdoors.org. Trail signs in need of replacement still have sentimental and decorative value for many people. Proceeds from the fundraiser benefit the AMC Trails Program. For more information, call (603) 466-2721.

Where's the Class of '81?

BETHEL—The Telstar High School Class of 1981 is seeking classmates for a 20th reunion. Anyone interested may contact Berta Smith-Broomhall at 875-3305 (Alberta@megalink.net) or Michele Cox Marois at 674-3325 (mckkuts@exploremaine.com).

Teen sentenced for threat

PORTLAND—A former Bonny Eagle High School student has been handed a four-month jail term for making a bomb threat at the school last year. Mary Jo Moore, 19, of Hollis must also pay $5,000 restitution, apologize to her former classmates at an assembly, serve 200 hours of community service, undergo counseling and complete her general equivalence diploma. Moore had pled guilty to a felony charge of terrorizing in connection with a 1999 threat at the school. If she fails to make restitution or meet the conditions of her sentence, she could face an additional 11 months in jail.

Deer kill up

AUGUSTA—Preliminary reports from Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife biologists show the deer kill up from last year. This year's kill should be in the 35,000 to 39,000 range. Last year, 31,473 deer were harvested. "Nearly all parts of the state will have a higher harvest, and the mild winter and the high winter survival rate last year was the main reason," said IFW biologist Dr. Gerry Lavigne.

STEC 571: Environmental Pollution and Protection (4 credits)

An introductory survey of physical environmental problems, this course explores the interrelationship between the natural environment and the effects of human activity resulting in pollution of air, water, and land. A major focus of the course is critical examination of ecological, economic, and political aspects of pollution in a global context.

Guide dog

BACK IN HARNESS
Lynn Mason-Courtney and her guide dog, Addie, walk up Main Street as trainer Beth Hamilton observes from behind. Hamilton, of the California school Guide Dogs for the Blind, came to Bethel to help Courtney and Addie after Addie was twice attacked by Rottweillers.

Rottweiler came running down the hill. It jumped on Addie, took her by the back of the neck, picked her up and shook her. That knocked me down. Then (the Rottweiler) grabbed her by the throat."

At that point, the owner arrived and got the dog under control. Addie was on the ground whining. The Rottweiler had injured the lab's back and pelvis. She needed medical treatment for several weeks afterward, said Mason-Courtney.

The dog's owner was taken to court by the district attorney on charges of having a dangerous dog, according to Bethel animal control officer Ozzie Hart.

The owner, he said, was warned by the court to keep the dog tied up at all times. The owner later moved to another area of town, and has complied with the order, Hart said. Mason-Courtney could have asked the dog be put down, but because it was the animal's first offense, she did not.

Looking over her shoulder
Of even greater concern than Addie's physical injuries, however, was the psychological effect.

"It was eight to 10 weeks before we could walk our (usual) route without her being nervous," said Mason-Courtney. Going against her training to ignore other dogs, Addie was now on the lookout for them.

If Addie isn't focused on traffic and other hazards, the results can be disastrous. It took several months for her to settle down and get back to doing her job the way she was taught.

But then the second incident happened. The day after last week's attack, Mason-Courtney and Addie walked from their home on Tyler Street to Main Street. As they waited to cross the street, a dog on a leash appeared.

"Addie refused to move or go forward," said Mason-Courtney. "She refused to do anything other than look at the other dog. She started barking and jumping around. She wouldn't pay any attention to me."

After the dog passed by, Mason-

Courtney was able to get Addie to cross the street. Then, however, "she stopped and wouldn't move until the dog disappeared," said Mason-Courtney.

At that point, Mason-Courtney wanted help. She contacted Guide Dogs for the Blind of California, the California school that provided her with Addie. Trainer Beth Hamilton came to Bethel Friday to work with them.

They walked up and down Main Street, then returned to Church Street, the scene of the incident. Addie nervously looked behind them, and also scanned ahead for signs of another dog.

But after Addie got beyond the dog's house, she relaxed. Mason-Courtney was encouraged.

With some pointers from Beth — such as avoiding the attack scenes and turning Addie around to look away from other dogs — she's now hopeful her dog will again be able to regain her confidence.

But, she wonders, "How many times can the dog put up with this?"

Hamilton said dog attacks "are a big problem" everywhere. "It can really affect a guide dog in its work," she said.

The solution, of course, is an obvious one — keep dogs hitched or on a leash.

The owner of the Rottweiler involved in last week's incident will receive summonses for having a dog at large and having a dangerous dog, according to Hart. The dog has had previous complaints against it, he said.

The charges in both incidents were unrelated to the fact Addie is a guide dog. In the case of an attack in which physical damage is done, Maine law sees guide dogs as no different than any other dog. Mason-Courtney and others have been working at the state level for legislation to impose more severe penalties for attacks on guide dogs.

But having people — or dogs — punished is not Mason-Courtney's primary objective.

"I'm much more interested in having people keep their pets leashed," she said.

Hoops

sophomores Wade Osgood (forward/guard), Kinsey Durgin (guard) and Gavin Palmer (forward).

In the preseason, the Rebels defeated Gorham (N.H.), Buckfield, Fryeburg Academy and Kents Hill.

The key to winning in the regular season, said Durgin, is depth. "We can wear people down," he said. "We'll keep running up and down the court."

As for defense, he said, "We can play a lot of teams man-to-man." Winthrop and Boothbay should again be the teams to beat in Class C. After them, said Durgin, "the league is wide open."

New this year, all teams will make the playoffs, making for an extended post season.

Durgin believes his team's style of play will be spectator-friendly. "It will be fast-paced — fun for the kids to play and fun for the fans to watch," he said. "So people better come and watch."

The girls' varsity squad, only seven members strong, lacks the luxury of depth that the boys enjoy. But coach Kelly Dole hopes they can make up for small numbers with quickness, athleticism, and plenty of experience.

The lineup includes seniors Lynsey Brown (forward) and Carrie Danforth (forward); juniors Mariah Seames (guard), Rebecca Swan (forward), Katie Wight (guard) and Anna Willard (guard); and sophomore Lauren Hart (forward).

That group, said Dole, "has been playing together since middle school. That will be a big benefit to them." The team lost four players to graduation, finishing last year's season 2-16.

As for this year's squad's quickness, "We're really going to try to use that to their advantage," Dole said. The small numbers, however, will require the players to be in good shape.

To keep them in shape and hone their skills, Dole is using some creativity in practice. With only seven girls, the team can't practice five-on-five. The solution: draft any unsuspecting staff member or student (male or female, high or middle school) who happens to look in through the gym door.

"We call them guest practice players," said Dole. "It makes it really fun. We open the practice doors to any interested member of the community who wants to come in and practice and help out."

Some recent stars have included Gina Douglass, Marilyn Swan, Linda Howe and Dani Bernier.

Dole hopes the unconventional practice will prepare her team to face MVC powerhouses Dirigo and Jay, as well as the tough Winthrop and Mt. Abram teams. After those top four, she said, "We have the potential to be there with the others. A lot will have to do with attitude and the heart we have. We have nothing to lose."

In preseason play, the Rebels played close games before losing narrowly to Buckfield and Fryeburg. They defeated Kents Hill by a large margin Tuesday.

Dole returns as coach after being on medical leave last season.

She will be assisted by new J.V. coach Gail Wight, who is also new to basketball. The long-time field hockey coach is now learning to teach her players to "shoot from the key, not the circle," she said.

No sticks allowed.

Tips for a Great Holiday Season

Keepsakes*

Don't throw away those mismatched mittens or toddler's socks with no mates! Stuffed with a discarded toy or small bouquet of silk flowers, a little lost mitten or sock can become a precious ornament for parents or grandparents. You may want to tuck something inside with a date to remember the size of little hands and feet. Stuff the bottom softly with fiberfill to help define the shape, and glue the treasures into the top.

Here's a great project for the kids. Save the shiny metal lids from frozen juice cans. During the year, set aside their best little photos, such as those taken at school or on their birthdays. (Double prints are great!) Take out the photos and cut the images to fit inside the lids. Help them glue some rick-rack, ribbon or lace around the edge, and glue a loop of pretty fabric ribbon to the back...you'll have a christmas ornament for Grandma and Grandpa. Or, if you'd rather, buy some disk magnets in the craft section and glue them onto the backs of the lids. Then the relatives can look at their little angels all year 'round, every time they open the fridge!

Personalized Ornaments*

Make personalized ornaments for everyone in your family with colored glass balls and glitter fabric paints in tubes. Use the paint to write names and messages on the balls, then finish decorating with paint, cording, jewels, sequins, and beads. Add a big bow to the top of the ball. At your family Christmas gathering, each person can take a turn hanging his or her ornament. Be sure to make new ornaments for new family members. It's a great way to welcome a new son or daughter in-law...or baby!...to the family.

Care Packages*

Send a Christmas "care" package to a child who's away at college. Include a small Christmas tree, ornaments, a tape of holiday music, a batch of their favorite holiday cookies...whatever would make their holidays more merry. This sure to be a big hit!

Fabric Gift Bags*

Take leftover Christmas material and make it into a small bag. Don't worry about the top; you don't have to finish it...just gather it together and tie it with ribbon. Inside the bag, fit a very tiny box of earrings or a pin. Your friends will want to save the "Christmas Bag" and use it next year for a gift they give to someone else.

Gift Tags*

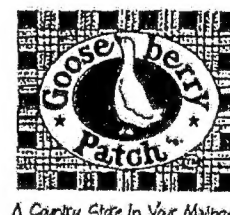

You may think many commercial gift tags are too small for your use. If so, you can make your own using a blank 3x5 cards. Just fold them in half and decorate with some Christmas fabric, wrapping paper, or cut-up Christmas cards. With a little white glue, stick the picture or decoration on the front. Use a hole punch and put a hole in the corner and tie on some ribbon. The ideas are endless. Let the kids do this over the Thanksgiving holidays or on a snowy day.

Bowtie Napkins*

You can dress up your table for a fancy dinner party by folding cloth napkins into bow ties. Just fold the napkin in half diagonally to form a triangle. Then place the folded edge at the top and, starting at the bottom point, roll up the napkin. Tie a soft knot in the center and fluff out the ends.

Quick Holiday Decorating*

Here's an easy way to make your house look like Christmas in one afternoon. Take all the pictures off the walls in "company" areas (living room, dining room and guest bath). Wrap each picture like a huge Christmas present, complete with large fancy bows. Rehang all the pictures on the walls in their original spots. This looks especially good with groupings of presents on the wall. For an extra special touch, add large gift tags with Christmas sayings or a few words from a favorite Christmas carol.

Bethel

by Virginia Keniston
Edith Rowe has been moved from Ledgeview Nursing Home in West Paris to the Norway Rehabilitation and Living Center.

Cathy Hart of Bangor spent the weekend with her mother, Gerry Howe. Cathy, her mother, and Robert Perry of Mexico were Sunday dinner guests of Allan and Linda Howe.

Edna Curtis has returned to Ledgeview Nursing Home after undergoing surgery at Central Maine Medical Center in Lewiston. Among those attending Sylvia Hoey's surprise 80th Birthday Party on the weekend were Sally and Paul Bodwell, Arlene Brown, Robert and Jackie Schuesler.

Dick Paine of Keene, N.H., spent the weekend with his parents, Bud and Mary Paine, and helped his mother celebrate her birthday.

The Congregational Church Fair was very successful with lots of people attending.

The Messiah Sing was very well attended.

Becky Kendall, Dottie Bartlett, Arlene Lowell and Polly Davis met Arlene Lyon in Gorham last Saturday and attended the annual Christmas Concert at Gorham High School.

Vada Cummings
Vada phoned me from Florida on the 24th because she remembered that it was eight years ago on the 24th that Arthur passed away. Vada is a very thoughtful person.

Vada has a grandson in the service who is stationed in Tennessee. He has his family with him. Vada and her friend went down to see them and on the way back to St. Petersburg, they ran into snow. She had mentioned stopping in Nashville to see the Grand Ole Opry and soon after they left Manchester they ran into snow, so think she meant they had the snow in Tennessee.

I only wish everyone could have had the great Thanksgiving that I did. Sonny and Nancy picked me up at noon and we went to Wayne and Becky Cummings' in East Bethel. Fifteen of us were there, including Wayne, Becky, Jordan, Abbie, Michaela, Nancy, Sonny, myself, Rhonda, Bunk, Darcie and Darren Buker, Elizabeth Siebold and Kate Loch and daughter Emily. Everyone had a great time and there was plenty to eat. Becky sent a lot home by me. I played a game of cribbage with Darren and he won. Played a game with Bunk and I won that one.

Cathy Newell came in Friday morning with some of a broccoli-bleu-cheese casserole left over from her and Charlie's Thanksgiving. Then Olga came in the afternoon on Friday with a big slab of pumpkin pie.

Dot Bean visited with her son, Harlan Bean, and family in South Paris over Thanksgiving.

KC Denton of PMV Coastal of Falmouth was at the Bethel House at 7:30 in the morning recently on maintenance.

I had a lovely letter from Julie and Jim Dougherty of New York, who called on me last summer when they were vacationing in Bethel. They also sent me a beautiful Thanksgiving card. I had another lovely Thanksgiving card from Sylvia Clark.

The Doughertys look forward to getting the "Citizen" every week and they cut out my column and many others and she is making scrap books of them. She also cuts out other items of interest, too, for her scrapbook. She has been doing it for some time now so has more than one scrapbook. Keep writing those columns folks and keep the Doughertys happy.

A while back in one of my columns I mentioned that Sarah Stevens said that way back when she was a youngster a man by the name of Bailey that lived in Newry was missing and that she did not remember that he was ever found. Warren Powers said that the man's first name was Elmer and that he was a great friend of Warren's dad, Harry Powers. He remembers of his father mentioning the fact that he was missing for some time and then was found living in Mason Township. He lived down near the Powers' family and Warren said his dad used to mention him often.

Ginny Walker was a Thanksgiving Day dinner guest of Sheila Head in West Bethel and had a Thanksgiving supper with Johnny and Edleen Winslow at their home on the Chandler Hill Road.

I was very surprised and pleased when Mary Lou Berry phoned me and had some information about Lillian Coleman that lived in Graf-

AN EARLY CHRISTMAS

Dot, a three-year-old white longhair cat, lives with the Goding family (Jodey and Peter, and her children, Brandi, 12, and Kayyla, 10) on Baker Road, near Songo Pond. Last July, Dot went outside. "She loves to hunt birds," said Jodey. But when the cat didn't come home for two days, she said, "I knew something was wrong." The family hoped for her return, but as time passed, said Jodey, "I thought we were catless." September rolled around, and when the family had a yard sale, they sold Dot's dishes and toys. In Riley Township, 10 miles away, Betsy Field and her family were living in a camp while they built a house in Newry. A couple of weeks ago, Field heard a cat meowing. Then, early last week the cat was under the porch. After several attempts, Betsy was able to catch it. "The whole family fell in love with her," said Betsy. They have a dog, but Field's nine-year-old daughter, Hannah, had always wanted a cat. Betsy — who is allergic to cats — agreed to adopt it. When they took it to the Bethel Animal Hospital to be checked, however, animal technician Kathy Jo Farren thought she recognized the cat. BAH called Jodey at work and told her they thought they had Dot. "I didn't believe it," said Jodey. Betsy brought the cat over for Jodey to see. "That's my cat!" she said. Said Betsy, "My heart sank." So did Hannah's. But, said Betsy, she and Hannah also talked about how they would want someone to return their dog if it was lost. Peter picked up Dot from Jodey's office — then picked up Brandi and Kayyla, who were at the Bethel Library. "It's Dot!" said Brandi. For the Goding family, it was an early Christmas present. For the Fields, said Betsy, "We learned a lot of lessons — like making someone else happy." How did the cat end up in Riley? Only she knows the answer to that question. Dot is shown here with (front) Kayyla, Brandi, and Hannah; (back) Peter, Jodey and Betsy.

Holy Communion was observed Sunday at the Bethel Alliance Church. Pastor Rick's message was "Loving and Undeserving." There was a special song by Peter Goding. After church, Thanksgiving baskets were delivered to the residents of the Bethel House from the Bethel Alliance Church. Please forgive if you did not receive a basket, as the ones delivering them did not really know where to go and may have missed someone.

Ronnie and Christine Hanscom and John and Wendy Williams decorated the West Bethel Church recently and then John and Wendy had lunch with Ronnie and Chris.

Folks at the Bethel House wish to thank the Bethel Alliance Church for the lovely Thanksgiving baskets.

The Way I See It

by Sharon Bouchard

Sharon Bouchard's column is published here by special arrangement with the Advertising Department of this newspaper.

It is the best of times; it is the worst of times. Hey, it was good enough for Charles Dickens; it's good enough for me. It also aptly describes the holiday season.

I love Christmas, it is my favorite time of the year, but unfortunately it is the time when Christmas Law kicks in.

Christmas Law is a lot like Murphy's Law in that whatever can go wrong will go wrong except with Christmas Law whatever goes wrong will end up costing you a lot of money.

If you are like me (poor) the one time of the year that you attempt to cut corners so you will have some extra spending cash is Christmas. It's a wonderful time of the year but it isn't cheap.

With grocery prices being what they are these days you darn near have to mortgage the farm just to put together a Christmas feast not to mention the gift buying, the increase in fuel oil as the temperatures drop and any new winter clothing that is needed. There is not a lot of room in the family budget for unexpected expenses, but with Christmas Law you can be darn sure you are going to have them.

Last week my gas stove wouldn't work. The pilots wouldn't light yet there was propane in the tank. Since the gas range isn't a terribly complicated appliance there are only a few things that can go wrong, but unfortunately I can't fix any of them.

Assuming it must be a gas leak somewhere between the tank and the stove and with visions of my house blowing up and landing somewhere on the top of Streaked Mountain, I called the gas company.

When the repairman arrived, what do you suppose was wrong with the stove? NOTHING! Not a darn thing! It cost me $40 to look stupid and I'll probably never know what went wrong.

Of course, now I worry that there was something wrong that the repairman couldn't detect and the stove will still blow up right when I'm cooking Christmas dinner and the whole family as well as the house will still end up on Streaked Mountain covered in Christmas wrapping paper and pumpkin pie.

So here I am with $40 less to spend on holiday festivities and chewing my nails over fear of an impending explosion and my furnace dies.

Nothing that big will die on a weekday between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Oh no, it dies on a weekend when you can be sure everything will cost double if you can get someone to come at all. Not to mention that I figured that was one more highly combustible item that would probably blow up.

After many hours of freezing and no hot water because it is heated by the furnace, along comes the furnace repairman with talk of such things as sludge and new filters and other furnace techno talk that I didn't understand. Just as I was thinking to myself that Christmas Law had definitely kicked in and wondering if the All For $1.00 store did Christmas lay-away, the repairman tells me the good news and the bad news.

"The furnace is running just fine now," he says. "Good," says I. "However, you have a leak in your fuel tank, not one, but two," says he. "Plug 'em up," I responded. "Can't do that, you have to get a new fuel tank," he tells me. "Can I put a pall under the leaks until after the holidays?" I asked. "You can, but you won't be able to have any oil put in because it might rupture the tank and that would be a mess, plus it would get the DEP involved and oh by the way, you are almost out of oil," he tells me.

I stopped wondering about the All for $1.00 store and wondered how the family would feel about hot dogs for Christmas dinner. If all that wasn't bad enough, I got up Sunday morning to an arctic chill inside the house. The furnace had died yet again. After a couple of repairmen and a lot of nail biting and pacing, everything was under control and I had heat once more. Now I await the bill of not one but two weekend service calls and an estimate on a new fuel tank.

As I was thinking about this and planning my Christmas dinner menu...

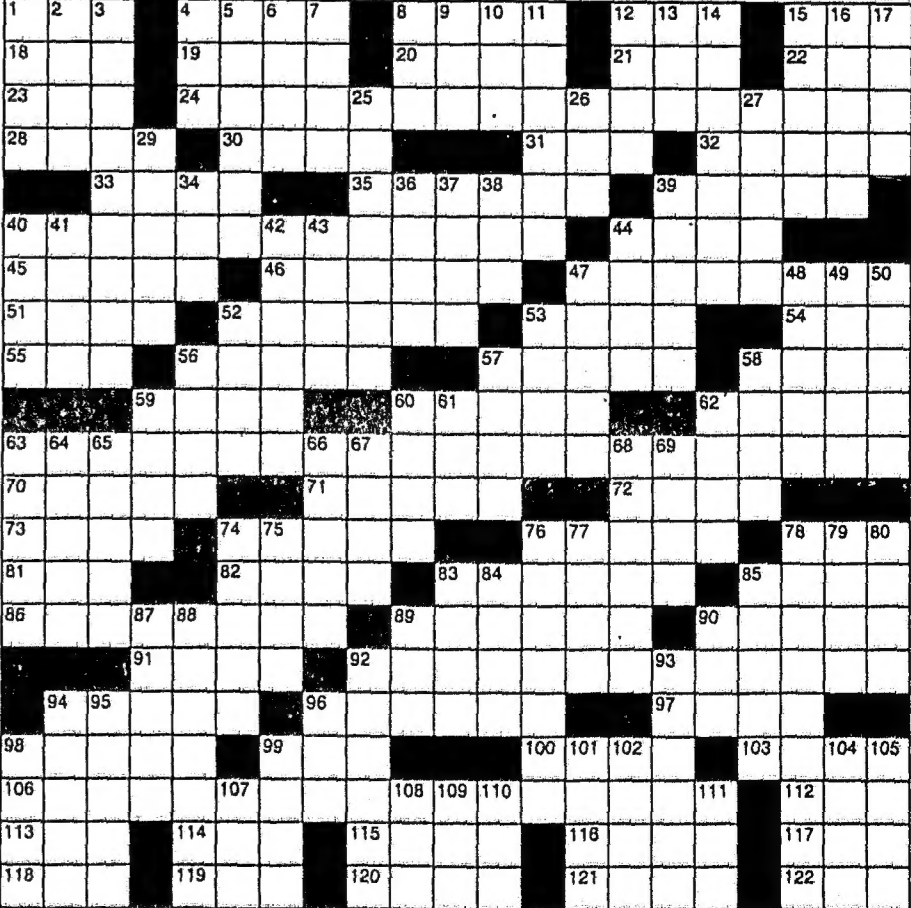

menu of peanut butter and jelly sandwiches, my son who had stopped by to lend some moral support says, "Ma, did you know that the seal on your refrigerator door isn't sealing?" "I don't want to hear about it," I said. "What would you like to eat with your porridge for Christmas dinner?"

I know the gas stove activated Christmas Law and sent a signal to the furnace and the furnace sent a signal to the fuel tank and the fuel tank sent a signal to the refrigerator and I have no doubt that as you read this the refrigerator is signaling the car. Something always goes wrong with the car just before Christmas. A routine oil change can end up being a rebuilt engine and your mechanic seems to resemble the Grinch.

I refuse, however, to let Christmas Law interfere with Christmas spirit. The way I see it, I have a roof over my head (so far), warmth (so far) a gas stove to cook the Christmas gruel on (so far) and a wonderful and loving family to share it all with forever.

Sunday River Valley

by Rockie Graham

This has been a busy week. The holiday season has started and all sorts of events are taking place.

Last week I, along with many others, attended the Sunday River Community Day event. There were staff members available to talk about the various goods and services to be found on the mountain this year. I had to leave before the talk but found the perfect equipment for me — a sled. It would allow me to go down the mountain without having to balance on two legs or unreliable ankles. Of course, I'd have to kneel, but I'm willing to try that, once anyway.

This past Thursday, after over a month, I saw not one but both turkeys. Would that be Henry and Hermione? In any case, they were trotting about in my yard, smart enough to steer clear of Tasha and to avoid fast-moving motor vehicles. They were last seen heading for the woods at the end of the field. Perhaps they were going to the river for a drink. Now I know they are still around and they certainly look healthy. We'll see if they stay the winter once it gets really cold.

Tasha and I also had an "encounter" with the tree whackers. Actually, they were very nicely trimming the trees to keep them off the power lines, etc., but Tasha thought them sinister. When we got near, because of snow, we had to walk out into the road to go by. I guess we got too near the truck, which was quite loud, as it powered the bucket up to the trees, because all of a sudden Tasha panicked and dragged me across the road. Fortunately, no one was coming the other way. In any case, now we have more area to walk, at least until the next snowstorm.

I have been taking Marcia Baker's weight-training class and we realized that almost half the class is women from this Valley. It is great fun and nice to be able to see neighbors every week. Looks like we all will be strong and healthy before winter even sets in. I know it has made a great difference in my life. I can now pick up many more things than I could before and am not so dependent upon others to get through my daily chores. Then, too, I was able to bring almost all my wood in by myself. I highly recommend the class. It is not gender specific, but lately it seems to be all women. Last year we had several brave men sign up.

For those who asked, I did indeed cook several meals on the wood stove last week. They included a bean and vegetable stew and a turkey stew. It allowed me to cook the dishes gently, while I was out, and more vigorously when I was home and feeding the stove. I even was attentive enough to avoid that charcoal taste.

All my storm windows are now up and all I have left is to put up some plastic on the walls and certain windows. Since I found my staple gun, that should not be too difficult. I will start with the bathroom window and move upstairs to the bedroom. As I said before, it is not the windows, up there, that are the real problem, it is the walls. I will see if the plastic makes a difference this year.

That is all for this week. I hope all have a happy and healthy week and stay warm. Enjoy the sun.

Karlene Bachelder and Beal Lowell were at the Oxford Lanes in Rumford one day to do some bowling for fun. On the first string, Karlene was high, beating Beal by 10 pins. On the second string, Beal was high, beating Karlene by nine pins. On the third string, Karlene was high, beating Beal by 15 pins. So on the overall scores Karlene was high on the singles, beating Beal by one pin. She also was high on the triples, beating Beal by 16 pins. She had two spares and Beal two spares.

Ras and Karlene Bachelder spent Thanksgiving Day with their daughter and husband, Claire, and George Romano in Wiscasset. Also there were Claire's daughter and husband, Michelle and Paul Josephson and son Nick and daughter Kylie from Cumberland. I didn't go because I had a cold, but they brought me back enough food for three meals, which I enjoyed very much. I missed their company a lot, but better luck next time.

Karlene Bachelder, Gil Seeley and Beal Lowell were at the Oxford Lanes in Rumford one day last week to do some bowling for fun. On the first string, Karlene and Gil tied, beating Beal by only one pin. On the second string, Karlene was high, beating Gil by 11 pins. On the third string, Gil was high, beating Karlene by 17 pins and Beal by 15 pins. So on the overall scores, Gil was high on both the singles and triples, beating Karlene by eight pins. Gil had one strike and Karlene had three spares. They went to lunch and did some shopping.

Nearly everybody has a few friends who stand out in their memory, friends who may not display a lot of emotion, but whom you know are always there for you. Gilbert James is that kind of friend to me, and has been ever since grade-school days. In high school at Gould Academy, we were assigned adjacent seats in study hall. In those days, we were both known to be among the quiet ones, but we enjoyed our harmless little pranks — like shooting hairpins across the study hall, bouncing them off the overhead blinds on the girls' side of the room. We enjoyed much the same type of outdoor activity, such as hunting and fishing, and were both from less than affluent families, with farm chores to do at home. Although we had so much in common, somehow work and distance kept us from getting together much outside of school. Nevertheless, the feelings of closeness have lasted over the decades.

Imagine my feelings when Gilbert revealed in church last Sunday that he has a brain tumor. He says he will undergo surgery next week to have the tumor removed, and the prognosis for recovery is good, although he may never regain his peripheral vision to the left side. This has been his only obvious symptom so far, a loss of vision to the left side. The entire congregation was shocked by the announcement, and everyone is being supportive and promising prayers for his full recovery. It feels like a member of the family has been stricken with a serious illness.

On a lighter note, I have made many friends in the American Legion. It is the people of the Legion who make it worthwhile. One of the guys who has become a good friend is Dick Roberts. Dick is one of those fellows who is never at a loss for words, especially when he is on the spot. At one meeting of the state level of the 40 & 8, a branch of the American Legion, Dick was asked where his report on the activity under discussion was, he responded, "It's in the typewriter." It seems like strange things keep happening to Dick, things that never seem to happen to anyone else.

Last week, I was talking to Dick on the phone, when his phone bebeen most successful with "Coyote Scent." I should think that would discourage anything from sniffing around.

Have you taken time out to view the sunsets? They are magnificent from the top of the hill at Fred Bilodeau's. They are also beautiful down the hill on the lake. The only problem is that the sun goes down so early this time of year.

The natural feed for the birds must be getting low because every day there are more birds at the feeder. The female cardinal appears twice a day. There is a free-roving cat in the area and I fear she may become his lunch. This cat is quite a hunter and has been seen deep in the woods stalking a partridge. "Bad kitty."

The juncos are back. We haven't seen any since last May. There is a large flock of chickadees, two rose-breasted nuthatches and a white-breasted nuthatch. The Canada jays are on an "a.m.-p.m." schedule and are regular visitors.

These are all "Birds of the Week". Feed them and enjoy them.

Don't forget that Santa is coming to town on this Saturday, Dec. 9. He will be at the Craft Fair at the fire station. The fair starts at 10 a.m. Santa arrives at 1 p.m. See you there.

I wish to extend my sympathy to the family of Freeman Hayden. They have been through a really hard time lately and have handled it with dignity, love and grace.

My son, Brian, turned 36 on Dec. 5. He is presently going to New England Law School and is very worried about his upcoming tort final. Seeing how the only tort I'm familiar with is three-layered and made of chocolate, I'm not much help. He wanted a subscription of the "Citizen" for his birthday present, so I'm making sure that I have his name in this column, the first one he will receive. Happy birthday, Brian. Don't flunk, you have to support me in my old age.

Fifty-nine years ago today, the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor. War was raging in Europe and Asia; England was being bombed; Jews were being executed just because they were Jews; my father was helping lay mines in Portland Harbor in case of invasion and I was two weeks from being born. When I look back at that time, it gan making a series of weird noises, which kept getting louder. Unsure if it was his phone or mine, I switched phones, but the noises continued. "I think it must be from your phone, Dick." He said, "Yeah, I know. A few days ago, my cat p-----d (urinated) in my phone, and I've been having trouble with it ever since. I think I'm going to have to put a box over the phone to keep it from happening again." All of this conjures up questions in my mind. Things like — how did the cat do that? And — did the cat attempt to cover up the phone?

Hanover

by Clem Worcester

Hanover selectmen met for their monthly meeting on Tuesday, Nov. 28. Captain James Miclon of the Oxford County Sheriff's Department attended and discussed the Neighborhood Crime Watch program. There will be a sign-up sheet circulated during December, and in January Captain Miclon will return for two sessions to develop the program in Hanover.

Also, at the selectmen's meeting were Scott Cole, Bethel town manager and Sylvia Gray, Newry administrator. They presented a draft of the Interlocal Agreement between Bethel, Hanover and Newry for the Disposal and Recycling of Solid Waste Materials. In the plan the three towns will each have two members on a Solid Waste/Recycling Board, and the costs of maintaining the transfer station on Mayville Road in Bethel will be shared by the towns involved. Recycle bins now located in each town would be located at the transfer station site (Bethel has already moved their bins to the transfer station). It is expected that each town will vote on the proposal at Town Meetings during December.

In other business, the selectmen appointed Herb Adams as an alternate on the Planning Board. This appointment created a vacancy on the Appeals Board and a volunteer is needed. Clem Worcester was appointed to a two-year term as registrar of voters for Hanover, and it was reported that Worcester had been named secretary for the Planning Board. The Planning Board will meet on Wednesday, starting in January. Scott Gould volunteered to work on the site plan review for the new town office building.

Following the selectmen's meeting there was a social gathering to honor Barbara Gross, who recently resigned from the Planning Board after serving 18 years. Barbara had served as chairman of the board and more recently had been the secretary. Selectman chairman, Bruce Powell, presented her with a gift. Cake and punch were served to the assembled guests.

The Hanover town clerk's office reports that 2001 dog licenses are now available and are due by Jan. 1. Licenses are $7.50 for each dog. For dogs that have been spayed or neutered the fee is $4. There will be an additional late fee of $5 for each dog after Jan. 31. The late fee has been increased from $3 this year. Dog owners should bring their animal's old license if available. An up-to-date rabies certificate is needed as is the spay/neuter certificate. All dogs six months old or older need to be licensed.

Last Wednesday was not a very good day for Louise Worcester of the Howard Pond Road. At 5 a.m. she fell in her home and broke her hip. Following an ambulance ride to Stephens Memorial Hospital in Norway, she underwent hip replacement surgery the same day. Louise says she is feeling much better. We all wish her a very speedy recovery.

December is here and the pre-Christmas frenzy is on. Saturday was a wonderful day for visiting local fairs and "greens sales." Gene and Sandy Wixom, Liz and Kay Stanczyk and I attended the annual "Taste of Bethel" at the Bethel Inn Conference Center. It was "gourmet heaven" and the perfect excuse to pig out on samples offered by the local chefs. Roast duck and garlic potatoes, seafood newburg, seafood bisque (yummy), chicken salad and Mothers wonderful clam chowder are some examples of what was served. Judging by the crowd of happy faces, this was a very successful event. The wreaths for auction were wonderful to behold.

Last week, Evelyn Kenney and I traveled to Paris Hill for the Christmas tour of homes. It was a cold, breezy walk but well worth the effort. The homes were beautiful.

Lucille and Earl Largesse have decorated their home into a Christmas wonderland. The lights are nothing less than fantastic. Last year they tied for first place in the Greater Errol Chamber of Commerce Christmas decorating contest.

Several people have been seen photographing the Church with the wreaths on the door and snow cover around it. It had appeared on several Christmas cards in past years.

The Ladies Aid members are busy preparing for the annual Christmas Party. Donna Harris has been helping Santa prepare gifts for the children. Funding for the gifts comes from the long-standing Jenkins Fund and is supplemented by the Ladies Aid. Senior Citizen Baskets are also in the planning stage. The party will take place on Saturday Dec. 16.

Now that hunting season is over the deer have moved back into the area. We had several in the yard last night. They were very interested in my compost pile and were devouring this year's discarded pumpkin. While Jim and Joy Yarnell were away visiting their son in New Hampshire, the deer moved in and ate the corner of the arborvitae. To keep the critters from devouring her beautiful garden, Joy has tried any number of repellents. She has

EXCEPTIONAL CARE...EXCEPTIONALLY CLOSE TO HOME

For the last six years, Dr. Jill Gabrielsen provided care to more than 1500 children at the Aviano Air Force Base in Aviano, Italy. Whether starting a comprehensive well-child care clinic or developing a state-of-the-art asthma program, Dr. Gabrielsen took her duties as Major and a general pediatrician very seriously. As a dedicated and compassionate caregiver, she also found time to get involved in organizing yearly sports physicals, opening a teen clinic and even initiating a play network to help find playmates for children living in isolated areas far from the base.

Now that Dr. Gabrielsen has joined the team here at Western Maine Pediatrics, you can expect that same level of commitment and dedication to duty in her care of your children.

After all, only the best will do for the U.S. Air Force...and for you.

really brings today and my little problems back into perspective. So what if we don't have a new president yet, so what if I don't have all the money I want to buy Christmas presents; my family is safe, happy, warm and well fed and because of the sacrifices those men and women made back in 1941-1945, we live in a free nation. Thank you.

Speaking of war, I saw the movie "The Patriot" the other night. Except for all the blood and gore, it was a very good movie. Of course in my opinion, any movie that Mel Gibson is in is a very good movie.

The Town of Andover owes Vicky and Marshal Meisner their thanks for making the bandstand in the common look so festive. It's beginning to look a lot like Christmas.

The word of the week is "fession." Marshall did the honors in picking out this one, so go ask him what it means. See ya.

I hope everyone had a nice Thanksgiving. We did. Andy and I did get to spend Thanksgiving in Lewiston. The weather report was a bit iffy there for a while but everything went around and out to sea, so we had a pleasant drive down and back.

As usual, Fred and Ellie put on quite a spread, but with such a big family it sort of has to be. Of course, everyone pitches in and brings things. Ellie is not only a mother of six, she is a retired school teacher and she knows how to delegate so everything goes along smoothly and the food is actually hot all at the same time. That's something I have trouble accomplishing even on a small scale.

Those present besides Fred and Ellie were Fritz and Norma Peterson; Richard and Robert Peterson (Fred and Ellie's twins); Kathy

'FANCY THAT' QUARTET TO PERFORM

Debby Luxton of Bethel and three fellow members of the Mollycoddett Chorus made their singing debut in September when they performed for the Norway-Paris Chapter of S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A. at their annual barbershop performance in South Paris. Since that time the quartet has added holiday music to its repertoire preparing to sing with their chorus in "Christmas Magic." The Mollycoddett Chorus is a chapter of Sweet Adelines International, a worldwide organization of women singers committed to the advancement of barbershop harmony through education and performance. These ladies can be seen performing this weekend at one of three locations: Saturday, Dec. 9, 1:30 p.m. at Bridgton Academy in North Bridgton; 7:30 p.m. at the First Congregational Church in South Paris; and Sunday, Dec. 10, 1:30 p.m. at the Bethel Inn Conference Center. Tickets are available at the door. For more information, please call Sue Bartlett (824-2468) or Nancy Schlieper (824-2375).

Perron and children Debby, Melissa, Ricky, Joshua and Jonathan; Steve and Amy Peterson and children, George, Kathy and Donald; Kenneth Peterson; Amy's mother and sister, Ruth Trites and Sarah Trites and Andy and I. We sat at a table that some of the cousins were at and we were kept entertained by George, who is six going on 10 and his sidekick Jonathan, who is 11. All the cousins get along well, which is even more delightful when you consider that Debbie Perron is 22 and Donald Peterson is 16 months and all the others are spaced in between.

I think my short-term memory is short; or one might say it gets shorter as each day passes. I'm not sure if I ever got in an item of sympathy for Sally Melville and her family when she lost her mother. I know they feel the loss keenly and I would be remiss not to extend our sympathies and prayers that they may be comforted. We are very sorry for your loss.

The weather outside may be soggy but the house certainly sucks the moisture right out of the plant pots. We have to water the plants quite often now. The Christmas cacti are in bud and bloom. They are very pretty but they just don't last very long. I'd like to enjoy the blossoms for a bit longer. If they would last as long as the flowers on the peace plant do, it would be very nice but, alas, they don't. I suppose I'll just have to be glad they bloom at all. So far only the cerise ones have. The ones on the plant that produces white blooms haven't as yet.

Ann Fitzmorris and I were in Norway Wednesday where Ann did some Christmas shopping and I made the large purchase of a dozen eggs. However, I did get to look around and make some tentative decisions on what to get when I go again. Somehow once December gets here, Christmas comes all in a rush. I refuse though to over extend and try to remember that "Jesus is the reason for the season" even if the commercial world has taken over. I do get amused, if ironically, when there is so much to-do over the display of a manger scene. If it weren't for that manger, there wouldn't be a Christmas; maybe another holiday, but not Christmas.

Crystal Lake entertained at a Housewares Party Monday evening. Those present were Jeannine Wing, Ann Fitzmorris, Lorraine Larson and Debbie Brown. Debbie made a turkey braid and a bundt cake that was made out of canned pumpkin and tasted like gingerbread.

The Greenwood Fire Department Auxiliary met Tuesday evening (our usual day is Monday, but our president, yes, we have one, was gone that day) at the Fire Station. Those present were Maggie Ring, Sally Melville, Veronica Penley, Cheryl Young, Mary Stone, Lorraine Larson and Denise Swan. The Christmas party was discussed and will be held Dec. 10 at 5:30 p.m. beginning with a potluck supper. Santa Claus will be a guest later in the evening.

family and many friends. Junior was 20 years old.

Richard says he has had to go to work for MDOT a few times already this winter. The black ice, especially in the early a.m., that is on the roads is very dangerous and causes many accidents. So please drive carefully. The towns need to be sure they have plenty of sand ready to treat the roads when needed.

Larry Billings, curator of the Woodstock Historical Society, reports that he has read Emerson's essay on the "Oversoul." It eloquently examines the spiritual dimension of life.

Happy birthday to those celebrating this month of December: Charlie Lowe, Donna Danforth, Jeff Kennison, Alex Poland, Eda Waterhouse, Roni Grover, Hannah Ryerson, Jayne Mack, Ken Poland, Tara Monzo, Erica Monzo, Ashley Miclon, Jim Mason Jr., Paul Benson, Pam Benson, Phil Merrill, Arden Andrews, Lillian Herrick, James Dunn and Cleo Ryerson. good as usual. People put a lot of work into this for the enjoyment of others.

Even Emogene Staples, who is 102 years old, was in the parade with the Daughters of Union Veterans. Past national D.U.V. president, Gail Butterfield; past department president of D.U.V., Beth Jones; current president, Lesley Dean and Tent 19 patriotic instructor, Marilyn Jones and Sally Sawyer were there. Vicky McDonald of South Carolina and Helvi Carey of Bryant Pond Tent also participated in the festivals by carrying the D.U.V. banner.

Thanks again to Arthur Gouin for letting us all camp on his premises and use his facilities for this non-profit worthy cause. Luke Jones, Ryan and Andrew Dean did the most of sales (busy at times). Michelle Lagueux and I did little but were supportive, and Joyce Gouin furnished and kept the hot pots full and replenished. We all made a good team and did very well. All members of D.U.V. furnished cookies and bars.

From Tri-Town Rescue

Tri-Town Rescue honored outstanding service recipients at its annual meeting and election of officers recently. Norm St. Pierre, newly elected chief of service, was honored for outstanding achievement for ambulance personnel. Mina Morgan, South Woodstock, was honored for outstanding service for auxiliary work. Ken Bacon was presented the lifetime achievement award.

St. Pierre has taken on the responsibilities of chief, working diligently to staff the service and promote effective training and aspirations for the service. He started a fundraiser last year for a defibrillator, which was successfully purchased. He has applied for multiple grants to help secure the financial base of the service. Prior to taking over the position of chief in September, he was assistant chief and served as secretary of the Board of Directors.

Mina Morgan coordinates a semiannual booster club for Tri-Town Rescue, held simultaneously with beano Wednesday nights at the Jackson-Silver American Legion Hall in Locke Mills. She has done this fundraiser for 19 years, since the organization formed in 1981. She also helps with many other fundraisers for the service.

Ken Bacon is a charter member of Tri-Town Rescue and recently moved away. He has served in the past as chief, assistant chief, communications officer, search and rescue team leader, quality improvement coordinator, and county communications committee chairman. Bacon has put in countless hours of volunteer on-call time, while working several jobs. In addition, plaques were pre-

The annual "Christmas with the Masons" will be held on Thursday, Dec. 7, at the Dr. Moses Mason House from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. As usual the interior of the period house museum will be decorated as it might have been in the early 19th century with boughs, berries, cones, and fruits, popular in the days of Dr. Moses and Agnes Mason, who lived on this site for more than 50 years. Hot mull cider will be served from the hearth of the winter kitchen and special treats will be available. Harpist Elissa Lufkin will also provide appropriate music for the season and period.

From the White Mountain National Forest

Where is your perfect Christmas tree? If it's about to come out of storage and be snapped together just like last year, okay. We know those trees are fire-safe, just the right size, nicely shaped, very neat, and lots easier to tend than the real thing we get from Mother Nature. If your perfect Christmas tree is in the crowd of cut conifers on the tree lot in town, okay. We know those trees are carefully cultured through the years to offer you the very best form with few "holes" and lots of dense, strong limbs to hold your treasured ornaments. Their fragrance is wonderful, and will fill your home with the natural scent of fir, spruce, or pine.

But maybe this year your perfect Christmas tree is not quite so perfect. And maybe it's just a little harder to find. Maybe it's growing in an opening in the forest, on the edge of a small meadow where deer and moose have browsed. As the hungry animals nip off buds at the branch tips, the buds left behind flourish and form dense, full branches. Maybe your tree is rooted just a short walk down an old logging road where skidders once chugged and crawled, scratching the earth just enough to allow seeds to take hold and grow a neighborhood of young conifers. Or maybe your perfect Christmas tree has wet feet as it waits at the edge of a swampy area, near the tall trees that protect certain shade-loving species.

Perhaps your perfect tree has been formed by the whim and rhythm of nature alone, and is waiting for you in the White Mountain National Forest. You'll have to look around carefully — your tree doesn't look like the one coming down from the attic, or the one from the lot. It's a little uneven and sparser for sure. It's a variety of greens and heights. It's whatever native species appeals to you. It has its own character and will fit in your home just where you want it (with a little pruning here and there, probably). Finding it sends you into the forest where you'll have to deal with the quiet solitude and curious chickadees of the winter woods. Your tree will wait while you tramp around and compare it to others. It will tolerate the kids shaking its branches and the swish of the dog's wagging tail. Your tree will wait while you take out the thermos and take in the scenery. Your tree is patient and can wait until next year if you happen to pass it by this year.

Perhaps this is the year to gather friends and family, kids and pooch, and discover your perfect wild Christmas tree. There are no directions to your tree. It's up to you to find it. Stop by a White Mountain National Forest ranger station for your $5 Christmas tree permit and some ideas on where to start your search.

For more information, call the U.S. Forest Service at (207) 824-2134 or (603) 466-2713.

Notes from

SAD44 Adult Ed

The spring semester of University of Maine classes at Telstar will begin on Jan. 16, offering more than 150 different college courses via ITV or the Internet. The cost for each three-credit course is around $300, depending on the tuition rate of the university campus offering the class. Course guides are available at the Adult Education office at Telstar or on the Internet at www.learn.maine.edu. Student advising is available through the university's Rumford/Mexico Center at (800) 696-1103 or by calling the Adult Education office at 824-2780.

The fall term for SAD44 Adult Education has been a busy one. Interest in GED Preparation and Testing has been high, with 15 individuals well on their way to earning their high school equivalency in time for Adult Education graduation in May. The Andover class has been especially diligent with five women regularly attending on Wednesday nights. New students are welcome to enroll at any time for either the Andover or Bethel classes.

The Learning Center in Bethel also works with individuals who are brushing up on their skills for college or a job, and provides comprehensive career and educational guidance. All services are free.

Director of Adult Education Cathy Newell is working on the winter 2001 schedule of workshops and courses, which will run from mid-January through March. New ideas for courses are welcome, as are proposals from those who would like to teach a class. Suggestions or proposals may be sent to newellc@sad44.org or call the Adult Education office.

From the

Lovell Historical Society

Once again, the Lovell Historical Society members are preparing for the annual Open House and Christmas Sale, which will be held at the Kimball-Stanford Homestead on Sunday, Dec. 10 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. There will be a wonderful variety of gift items, handcrafts, Christmas decorations, and holiday foods available to purchase.

Among the area artists and craftspeople planning to participate this year are Melanie Farrington with fleece apparel, Barbara Sperling with clay jewelry, Polly Ryan who offers quilted crafts, Susan Belding and Carol Walker who exhibit Christmas greens and dried arrangements, Lynda Rasco will be there with Harvest Gold Jewelry, Pam Bliss will once again be setting up a small edition of "Yankee Ingenuity," which is always a popular spot with shoppers. There are still a few spaces available; it is probably not too late to sign up.

An assortment of holiday "goodies" will be offered for sale, and there will be a hospitality table with cookies, punch and coffee or tea. A new offering this year will be a "Chowder and Sandwich Luncheon Special," mostly for the convenience of the workers and craftspeople, but available also to "early birds" for as long as the supply lasts.

Among the gifts to be included in the raffle this year are a $100 gift certificate for the Center Lovell Inn, a crocheted granny square afghan, made and donated by Barbara Eastman, and a photographic print, "Moonrise," donated by Juanita Perkins of Windsong Scenics. All items will be on exhibit at the Open House. The drawing will be held on Dec. 19.

The Christmas Open House is a final event of the season before we close the Kimball-Stanford House for the winter months. We look forward to seeing many of you there, and wish you a lovely Holiday Season.

From the

Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce

Hear ye, Hear ye. Everyone is invited to gather this Sunday evening, from 5 to 8 p.m. at the Sunday River Brewing Co. for a holiday social. You need not be a member of the chamber to be welcomed; this is for all to celebrate what a special community we live in.

All interested community members are also invited to the chamber's monthly community Networking Breakfast, to be held on Wednesday, Dec. 13 from 7:30 to 9 a.m. at the Bethel Historical Society. A RSVP is required by Tuesday, the 12th, to 824-2282. A $3 breakfast will be available.

Wow, what a terrific weekend we just had, thanks to the efforts of so many businesses and volunteers. An estimated crowd of around 300 enjoyed the Taste of Bethel and the Theme Wreath Auctions, both held at the Bethel Inn's Conference Center. (A huge thank you to Mary Brown and Allen Connors.) We received many favorable comments on both events. The delicious food was presented by The Victoria, Café DiCocoa, Mothers, Sunday River Brewing Co., Bethel Inn & Country Club, Sudbury Inn, Java House, Good Food Store, the restaurants at Sunday River Ski Resort and the Telstar High School Intro to Foods class. The most successful Theme Wreath Auction ever was made possible by the Village Sampler, S. Timberlake Co., the Bethel Inn & Country Club, the River View Resort, the Inn at the Rostay, Pat's Pizza, Sunday River Ski Resort, BIG Adventure Center, the Toy Shop, Sunday River Inn & Cross Country Ski Center, Java House, Key Bank, Mountain Mann, Bethel Citizen, Bethel Historical Society, Casablanca Cinema, and Designs. Many thanks to all the above businesses. It was agreed that the food trays were a big help this year — thank you to Crescent Park School and Telstar Regional High School for the loan for the day.

Free wagon rides in the Bethel Village were enjoyed by many on Saturday. Many thanks to Megalisk for sponsoring this popular activity this week.

THE PHILBROOK FARM INN in Shelburne, N.H., first opened to the public in 1861, is shown as it looked prior to the addition to the main house in 1907. The inn is believed to be the oldest hostelry still operating in the United States under the management of one family. This photograph is one of thousands that can be found at the Bethel Historical Society, which also possesses an outstanding collection of manuscripts, books, documents, and artifacts relating to western Maine and northern New Hampshire. The society is currently raising funds to establish its Regional History Center on Broad Street and the 1821 O'Neil Robinson House, which now houses exhibit galleries, offices, and the museum shop. Completion of this project will provide for improved storage space and greater access to collections as well as rooms devoted to educational activities, genealogical and historical research, and traditional crafts. Once the center is fully operational it will offer an expanded series of lectures, special events, conferences, courses, seminars, and publications. To learn more about this project, call the society at 824-2908 or (800) 824-2910 or use the e-mail address history@orion.bdc.bethel.me.us or visit the web site <http://orion.bdc.bethel.me.us/~history>.

Obituaries

LOUISE JORDAN CHASE

Louise Jordan Chase, 81, of Clover Manor Living Center, Auburn, died Nov. 25, 2000, at St. Marguerite d'Youville Pavilion in Lewiston.

She was born on Nov. 4, 1919 in Bethel. She was the daughter of Irwin and Sibyl Farrar and attended Gould Academy.

She first worked in the Rumford area learning the restaurant business. She left Rumford to own and operate Jordan's Restaurant in Locke Mills for over 25 years.

She and her husband, Everett Chase, retired to the Lewiston area in 1985. Leaving retirement, she and Everett operated the cafeteria for the NYNEX phone company for two years.

She was a member of the Calvary United Methodist Church in Lewiston.

Survivors include her son, William Jordan and his wife Betty of Locke Mills; her daughters, Carleen Roy of Portsmouth, N.H., and Sharon Brady and her husband Tom of Newburgh; her sister, Doris and her husband Leslie of Sutton, Mass.; her sister-in-law, Helen Farrar of Norway; two granddaughters; two grandsons; two nieces; a nephew; and four great-grandchildren. She was predeceased by her first husband, Thomas Arthur Jordan; her second husband, Everett Chase; her son, Michael Jordan; her sister, Mildred Swinton; and her brother, Dean Farrar.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday, Nov. 29, at the Weston-Chandler Funeral Home, Norway, with interment in Buckfield Village Cemetery.

GERALDINE R. COOK

Geraldine "Gerry" R. Cook, 62, passed away Nov. 29, 2000, at her son's residence in Stockton Springs, Calif., after a lengthy illness.

She was born on Feb. 18, 1938, in Norway, the daughter of Everard V. Monk Sr. and Nettie Rich Swan. She attended Norway schools and received her GED at Belfast High School in 1988.

She had worked as a machine operator in Massachusetts, then in Bethel as a housekeeper at Penobscot Bay Meadows.

She looked forward to going to Aldus Shores to camp for the summer, which she had done for 10 years.

Survivors include her longtime companion, Warren Carter of Searsport; four sons, Nelson E. Riley Jr. and Vivian of Westbrook, Howard C. Riley and Gloria of Manchester, N.H., Bruce E. Riley and Joanne of Stockton Springs, Calif., Richard I. Riley and Elaine of Sanford; two daughters, Velma R. Riley of Milford, Mass., and Pauline W. Stevens of Bangor; three stepsons, Richard, Mark and Ike Cook, all of Belfast; one stepdaughter, Ruth Cook of Belfast; eight brothers, Percy Monk Jr. of Bryant Pond, Ben Monk of New Hampshire, Rick Houghton of Turner, John Small of Norway, Mike Small of Norway, Everard V. Monk Jr. of Cartersville, Ga., Jim and John Swan, both of Bethel; nine sisters, Jeanie Smith of Leeds, Pat Kennedy of Phoenix, Ariz., Victoria Goding of Danville, Dianna Bisbee of South Paris, Donna Ingalls of Mechanic Falls, Cheryl Noyes of Bar Mills, Linda Heaward of Oxford, Janet Bailey of Swanville, and Millie Akers of Bethel; 24 grandchildren; 16 great-grandchildren; and "Benny," the dog. She was predeceased by her parents; two daughters, Brenda Riley and Sherry Riley; and one sister, Jackie Knight.

Funeral services were held Saturday, Dec. 2 at the Stockton Springs Community Church, with the Rev. Wilson Rose officiating. Those who wish may make memorial contributions to Waldo County Home Health Care or Waldo County Hospice, P.O. Box 772, Belfast, ME 04915.

JAMES C. HEATH

James Clark Heath, 43, of West Paris, died unexpectedly Wednesday, Nov. 29, 2000.

He was born in Lewiston on Jan. 4, 1957, the son of Clayton E. and Helen Tamlander Heath.

He graduated from Oxford Hills High School and Central Maine Technical College on a scholarship from Maine Machine Products. He had been employed with Maine Machine Products for the past 20 years. He enjoyed fishing.

He married Melissa Salls on Nov. 8, 1992.

Survivors include his parents; his wife of West Paris; two daughters, Christiana and Sarah both of West Paris; three sisters, Diana Nadeau of Greenwood, Lauri Roode of Intervale, N.H., and Melinda Seames of South Paris.

Funeral services were held on Dec. 5 at the Weston-Chandler Funeral Home, Norway. In lieu of flowers, those who wish may make contributions to Gallilee House, 50 Paris Street, Norway, ME 04268.

ETHEL L. CHAPMAN

Ethel L. (Smith) Chapman, 79, of Greenwood Street, West Paris, formerly of West Bethel, died early Friday morning, Dec. 1, 2000, at the Ledgeview Living Center, West Paris, shortly after being admitted.

Mrs. Chapman was born in South

Paris on May 13, 1921, daughter of the late Frank and Zella (Bryant) Smith, but attended schools in Locke Mills.

A mill worker by vocation, she had been associated with Newton & Tebbets of West Bethel for over 35 years.

Mrs. Chapman had resided on the Flat Road, West Bethel for many years, until establishing her residence in West Paris last year.

She was married to Robert Chapman, who predeceased her, and to Lawrence Sessions, who also predeceased her.

She was a member of the Bethel Historical Society.

Survivors include her daughter, Irene Sessions, with whom she made her home; a brother, Earl Smith of Locke Mills; several nieces, nephews and cousins, as well as a double cousin, Evelyn (Bryant) Chapman of Bangor. Besides her parents and husbands, she was predeceased by a half sister, Alice (Staples) Crockett.

Graveside funeral services were held at the Songo Pond Cemetery, Albany, on Monday, Dec. 4. Those who wish may make a donation to: Moose Pond Animal Shelter, 10 Sumner Road, West Paris, ME 04289.

WILLIAM J. C. YOUNG

William "Bill" John Charles Young, 101, of Bethel died Sunday, Dec. 3, 2000 at Ledgeview Living Center, West Paris.

Mr. Young was born at Sherbrooke, Quebec, Canada on Oct. 19, 1899, son of the late Louis E. and Mary Jane (Poole) Young. He was educated in the Bethel area schools.

Mr. Young was a mill worker in woodturning, retiring from the Ekco Mill in Locke Mills. During the war, he worked at the South Portland Shipyard. After retirement, he worked for the Bethel Inn in the flower gardens.

He married Lillian Grover in 1920; she predeceased him in Sept. 1977.

Survivors include two sons, Lawrence and Grover (Pete) and two daughters, Janice Cross and Florence (Honey) Bailey, all of Bethel; 18 grandchildren; several great-grandchildren and great-great-grandchildren. He was predeceased by two daughters, Eleanor Buker and Edna Cole; and one son, Harold.

Funeral services were held Tuesday, Dec. 5 at the Greenleaf Funeral Home, Bethel. Graveside services followed at Pine Grove Cemetery, West Bethel. In lieu of flowers, donations can be made to Ledgeview Living Center, West Paris, ME 04289.

JOHN P. BAYERLEIN

John P. Bayerlein, 53, died Tuesday, Dec. 5, 2000, at Central Maine Medical Center, Lewiston. He had resided in Bethel for the past 15 years, coming from Bellemead, N.J.

He was born in Astoria, N.Y., on May 13, 1947, the son of William and Madeleine Mirman Bayerlein. He attended schools in Astoria and graduated from Bryant High School in the Class of 1965. He then attended Borough of Manhattan Community College in Manhattan, N.Y.

He married the former Mary Beth Cameron on April 21, 1985.

Mr. Bayerlein was an accountant and with his wife owned and operated the Cameron House in Bethel for the past 15 years.

He was a member of the Bethel Historical Society, served on the SAD44 Board of Directors, and was a member of the Maine Innkeepers Association. He enjoyed collecting classic cars.

He was a loving husband, father and grandfather who had a great sense of humor and love of people. He also loved politics.

Survivors include his wife of Bethel; two daughters, Elisabeth Bayerlein-Wetzel and her husband Kenneth of Lake Tahoe, Nev., and Sherri Grisack and her husband Scott of North Brunswick, N.J.; two grandchildren, Hannah and William Grisack, both of North Brunswick, N.J.; one brother, William Bayerlein of Rego Park, N.Y.; one sister, Patricia Bolivar of Whitestone, N.Y.; and several nieces and nephews.

Memorial services will be held at 1 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 9, at the West Parish Congregational Church, Church Street, Bethel, with the Rev. Jean Bass officiating. Memorial visitation will take place from 6 to 8 p.m., Friday evening, Dec. 8, at the Greenleaf Funeral Home, Vernon Street, Bethel. In lieu of flowers, those who wish may make contributions in John's memory to Arbor House, c/o Central Maine Healthcare, 364 Main Street, Lewiston, ME 04243.

Card of Thanks

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all the friends, neighbors and churches for all the cards and prayers sent my way in the support of my illness.

Just knowing people care so much helps a great deal. This will be a long journey, but it is a positive one and we have a lot of support and some great doctors and nurses.

Thank you and God bless you, David Hale

Card of Thanks

The family of Louise Jordan Chase wish to thank everyone for warm wishes, cards, flowers and sharing her funeral with us.

Your caring has given us the courage to go on without her. She will be dearly missed.

Sincerely,
Sharon & Tom Brady
Bill & Betty Jordan
Carleen Jordan Roy

Thank You

A special thank you to the family of Field/Lokken & the Bethel Animal Hospital for the safe & happy return of our pet "Dot".

The Goding/Figueroa family

Thank You

I want to thank everyone for their concerns, prayers, cards and help.

A special thank you goes to my husband and daughters, Debbie and Lorraine for all the care they gave me, and also to Dr. D'Angelo and nurses at Mercy Hospital in Portland.

Thirza Herrick

Thank You

We want to thank everyone for the cards, food, flowers and phone calls during our recent loss. We thank Dr. Medd and Dr. Ware for the wonderful care Mom received.

Also, a thank you to the Norway Rehabilitation and Living Center, and to Reverend Deborah Jenks. We appreciate all your care and kindness.
